Ticket to Work Newsletter

December 2018

Welcome to the December edition of the Ticket to Work newsletter, bring together information from all our networks!

2018 has been a huge year for Ticket to Work and National Disability Services. Our networks have achieved great outcomes for young people with disability across Australia as seen in the outcome report below.

The National Team looks forward to working with you in 2019 and wishes everyone a safe festive period and a Happy New Year.

Upcoming training

Micro-Enterprise Development Training

Parkville: 14 February 2019

Micro-Enterprise Development Training supports people with disability to discover, explore and develop their own micro-enterprise or small business. It is a tried, tested and award-winning program that offers real choice and control to its participants. Micro-Enterprise is relatively untapped but often a successful employment option.

Success stories

Here are stories that have been in the media recently. They highlight the fabulous achievements of young people involved in Ticket to Work and our network members.

Jen Steer - employer

Jen is the manager of cafe 'Two before Ten.' For Jen, employing Charlotte was a great opportunity to provide structure and process for a young person with disability to be successful in working in the business.

David Banks - employer

David, who manages Brock, recommends other employers to look into employing young people with disability to do a school based traineeship. Since taking Brock on he has become a key part of the team and works casually doing bar work. David says, I could bring Brock into any situation at the club and I'm confident he could do the work."
